

PROPOSED CHANGES TO ELIGIBLE AREAS –FLORIDA ONLY

2011

Only the counties under consideration for change are described in the following pages.
Click on the appropriate bookmark or search by county name.

Why we must change the area from eligible to non-eligible – it's the law!

The Rural Development, an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture, is designated to provide single family housing services only in Agency designated rural areas. The objective is to assist eligible households in obtaining adequate but modest, decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings and related facilities for their own use in rural areas by guaranteeing sound RH loans which otherwise would not be made without a guarantee. Rural is defined* as:

Open country not associated or part of an urban area; or

- Any town, village, city, or place (including the immediately adjacent densely settled area) that is not part of or associated with an urban area, and that;
- Is rural in character with a population of less than 10,000; or
- Is not contained within a Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) with a population of between 10,000 and 20,000. Areas classified as rural prior to October 1, 1990, even if it is within an MSA, may be considered rural as long as it: (1) has a population between 10,000 and 25,000 and (2) is rural in character.
- Two or more towns, villages, cities, or places that have densely settled contiguous populations and are associated with each other are considered as one in regards to the rural area perimeters. This rule applies even if one of more of the contiguous towns, villages, cities, or places is located in an adjoining county.
- A site that is in "open country not part of or associated with an urban area" is one that is separated by open space from any adjacent densely populated urban area. Open space includes undeveloped land, agricultural land, or sparsely settled areas. Open space does not include physical barriers (such as rivers or canals), public parks, commercial and industrial developments, small areas reserved for recreational purposes, and open space set aside for future development.
